Mediation Referral Form – Service Agreement

Mediation is directed at resolving issues regarding the on-going care and management of children following parental separation or divorce such that a parenting plan is developed or specific issues are resolved. It is the parenting plan that sets out the residential arrangements as well as roles, responsibilities and approaches for the care of the children. In mediation, parents retain control of the outcome.

The role of the mediator is to facilitate discussion, help generate options and educate on matters of concern to the well-being of the children in the context of the parental separation/divorce. The mediator will endeavour to keep behaviour safe and civil to allow appropriate negotiation between the parents.

Parents may be seen together or separately depending on the level of conflict and matters of concern. If seen together, the mediator can separate the participants when necessary and move between separate rooms if required. Typically the process is less costly and proceeds quicker when parents are seen together. Unless there is a particular reason not to be seen together, it is better to be seen together.

A developmental perspective is taken in structuring parenting plans so parents are better prepared to handle natural changes that occur with time.

People may self-refer for this service or a lawyer may refer you on your behalf. If you call for yourself please do NOT launch into your version of the problem. To the degree you lay out your side of the issues in advance of the other person, you will be considered to have biased my perspective and service may end before it even begins. In calling on your behalf, identify you are seeking mediation and then please let me lead the conversation so I obtain only the information I require to begin this process evenly as possible. Please be advised, I will not answer hypothetical questions as those are typically based on the caller's situation and discussing those hypothetical situations will be considered a matter leading to bias. Please also note, if you are considering my mediation service, you are well advised to inform the other party and have that party read this web page. The other party will have to read and complete this form too.

Mediation Process (in general terms):

1. Where available, documents may be reviewed in advance of meeting.
2. Prior to the first meeting, the mediator will meet with each parent separately in person or by phone, to screen for domestic violence and power imbalances.
3. The first mediation meeting is scheduled for 3 hours duration. The purpose of the first meeting is to get acquainted and for the mediator to learn about you, your family history, the children and current issues. During this meeting the parents may provide signed consent permitting exchange of information with other service providers.
4. The children may be seen during the course of a mediation. Meetings with the children are usually scheduled for 1 hour but will vary depending on the children's age, comfort and discussion.
5. Meetings with parents will continue as necessary towards the goal of achieving a mutual agreement.

6. In the event an agreement is reached and a plan is achieved, this will be written up by the mediator as a Memorandum of Understanding. The parents can chose to follow the plan as is, or have it formalized as a legal document through their lawyers. Parents are advised to obtain independent legal advice.
7. In the event a plan is not achieved, a brief report will be provided stating an agreement has not been achieved in this process.
8. Only a Memorandum of Understanding or brief report stating an agreement has not been reached (or combination thereof) can be used for court purposes.
9. Parents should be aware that the opinion of a mediator may be influential in a court proceeding. When a mediator provides a report and can be called to Court, the process is referred to as open mediation. This is distinguished from closed mediation where any activity, outcomes or views of the mediator are sealed and not allowed for use in a court process. Only closed mediation is provided. Apart from reports noted above, Gary Direnfeld and/or his records cannot be used for court or arbitration purposes between the parties.
10. Information will be shared only upon written consent except where there is risk of harm to self or another person, or as required by law as it pertains to child protection matters. There is no recoding or posting of content or comments in any form or media by clients or their proxy although Gary Direnfeld may record any/all conversations at his discretion solely for accountability purposes in the event an issue with service arises. The service record is the property of Gary Direnfeld. Information obtained about persons served shall be used for service purposes, payment collection and/or, satisfaction surveys. Non-identifying information may be used for statistical, research or teaching purposes.
11. Gary Direnfeld shall be entitled to retain independent legal counsel and to be compensated for the cost thereof on a substantial indemnity basis in circumstances where in his sole and arbitrary determination, his integrity, independence, and quality of service are called into question or in any circumstance where he is required to attend and answer questions in accordance with any subpoena, Order or any other request, whether requiring attendance in person or by any other means such as correspondence, fax, email or telephone.
12. Mediation generally requires 3 to 20 hours for completion depending on number of issues and parental flexibility. The parents must determine prior to mediation how costs will be divided between them. This is not a matter for the mediator to determine.

Appointments cancelled with less than

Further, time will be taken at the beginning of the first meeting for me to present my qualifications, experience and approach to counselling so that service is provided on an informed basis.
